Our National Bird. The Chance a Western Orator

Deems Imperatively Necessary.

Deems Imperatively Necessary.

Hon. George W. Peck, in his fourth-of-July oration at La Cross, Wisconsin, said:

"It may have been noticed that thus far I have made no allusion to the American eagle, the national trade mark (patent applied for,) but it is not that I do not appreciate the position that species of poultry occupies on these occasions. The poet, alluding to the eagle, says:

"Bird of the broad and feeting wing.

"This is too true. He is a high old bird, and the committee that selected the eagle as a national emblem should have been arrested for disorderly conduct. O, great bird! you live on mice; you soar aloft on pinions airy until you see a poor little mouse with one leg broke, and then you swoop down like a ward constable and run him in. You are a nice old bird for a trade-mark for a mation of heroes, you old coward. You sit on a rock and watch a peasant woman hanging out clothes. When she goes into the house to turn the lathes-writner. you, great bird—

When a newspaper writer uses such expressions as "gusts of wind and shinigullions of gab," he evidently reages upon that golden age of rhotorical trumpets, when men will curse the day they were born.

The New York Express says "to becool is now being raised in Texasequial to the best Missouri leaf or Virgisia wrappers."

The Express is mistaken. Texas tobacco is equal to the best Connecticut seed leaf and that fact will be found out after a while.

The Proposed barbeene and grand Democratic rally at Cliffon, we again remind the public, comes off on Friday axxi, September 6th. Senator Coke, Hon. R. Q. Mills, Col. Lang, and probably Gov. Throckmorton, are expected as speakers for the occasion. The Examinen, of course will be represented.

"Any one depositing a dead animal within one mile of this place will be fast morning a dead dog was banging to the sign, placed there by some reckless seamps who had not the fear of the deed?" Some restable city fathers of Austin. The next morning a dead dog was not deposite, seamps who had not the fear of the deed? Before their eyes. And now if they should be arrested what can the fathers do? The dog was not deposited by thung there. Deposit means to bay down, and the carcas was hung up.

Ah! that indeed, would be, and but for the adroit diversion of the convention from its regular and proper course Lang would have got the nomination very sure as it was in fact, his strength was only fairly beginning to develop, when, discovering what was coming certain wire-pullers sprung the second H. J. C. and thus cut him off. Six hours more of regular convention work would have sufficed to make him the nominee; but the commission took the next bet man. Lang is satisfied and so are we.

Freezing it Out.

A Philadelphia doctor, acting on the principle that a freezing temper-ature destroys the germs of yellow fever, proposes to freeze it out. He advocates, says the Philadelphia Led-advocates, says the Philadelphia Ledger:

Let every quarantine station have a ward or room capable of holding several patients, more or less, as the exigencies may demand, so arranged that ventilation can be maintained exclusively through ventilators and by means of small ante-rooms with spring closing doors, and then have no mode of entrance or exit to the ward except through the ante-room. The ante-room should be kept at the same low temperature, or even lower than that in the ward, sao that the temperature in the latter may not be raised by the opening and closing of doors by the attendants, nor any of the disease producing germ escape before they are thoroughly subjected to the low temperature and destroyed. The ward and ante-room must be kept at a temperature not higher than 3.5 5 Faluerbett. Keep to be the ed. The ward and ante-room must be kept at a temperature not higher linn 35° Fahrenheit. Keep the pa-tients comfortable by a sufficient amount of bodelothing; and every-thing that goes from the room, such as clothing, exerctions, all emana-tions, etc., must be exposed a suffi-cient length of time to the cold. This will kill the poisonous germs, or reproducing cause, and prevent, as This will kill the poisonous germs, or reproducing cause, and prevent, as far as the cases under treatment are concerned, any risk of the disease spreading. If patients cannot bear so much cold during treatment, an adjoining warmer room can be made, with no mode of access or ventilation except through the cold room, and everything going out of the warmer room must be allowed to remain a sufficient length of time to get rid of the contagion. If no attendant occupies the ante-room the degree of cold can be kept near zero, in order the more quickly to destroy all the disease producing agencies.
